The Italian journals publish an appeal from Garibaldi, addressed to "The people of Europe. He says:—"Do not abandon Poland!—Every people has a right to assist this unfortunate nation, which is proving to the world what despair can do. Disarmed, deprived of the flower of its young men, already proscribed or imprisoned, bending the neck under a numerous army, it rises like a giant. The men leave the towns and rush into the woods determined to conquer or die; the women spring upon their hired assassins who abduct their children and put out their eyes. Do not abandon Poland! Do not wait until you are reduced to despair, as she is; do not let your neighbor's house be burnt if you wish to be assisted in extinguishing the conflagration that consumes your own.

The decision of the Supreme Court in the prize cases will, it is presumed, apply also to the question of ransomed federal vessels. The opinion of the court being that the war is attended with all the legal consequences of an international war, a bond given by representatives of a captured federal vessel and cargo to a confederate officer for the ransom of the same must necessarily be held valid.
